BACKGROUND OF THE STUDY

The Welbees Fatigue Study is a research project on the impact analysis, prevention, and management of French Bee's crew fatigue.

The study is conducted in a scientific and objective manner, supported by data collection and various research methods.

The study will achieve the following 3 tasks:

1

Gathering flight and cabin crew member feedback to identify the various causes of fatigue;

2

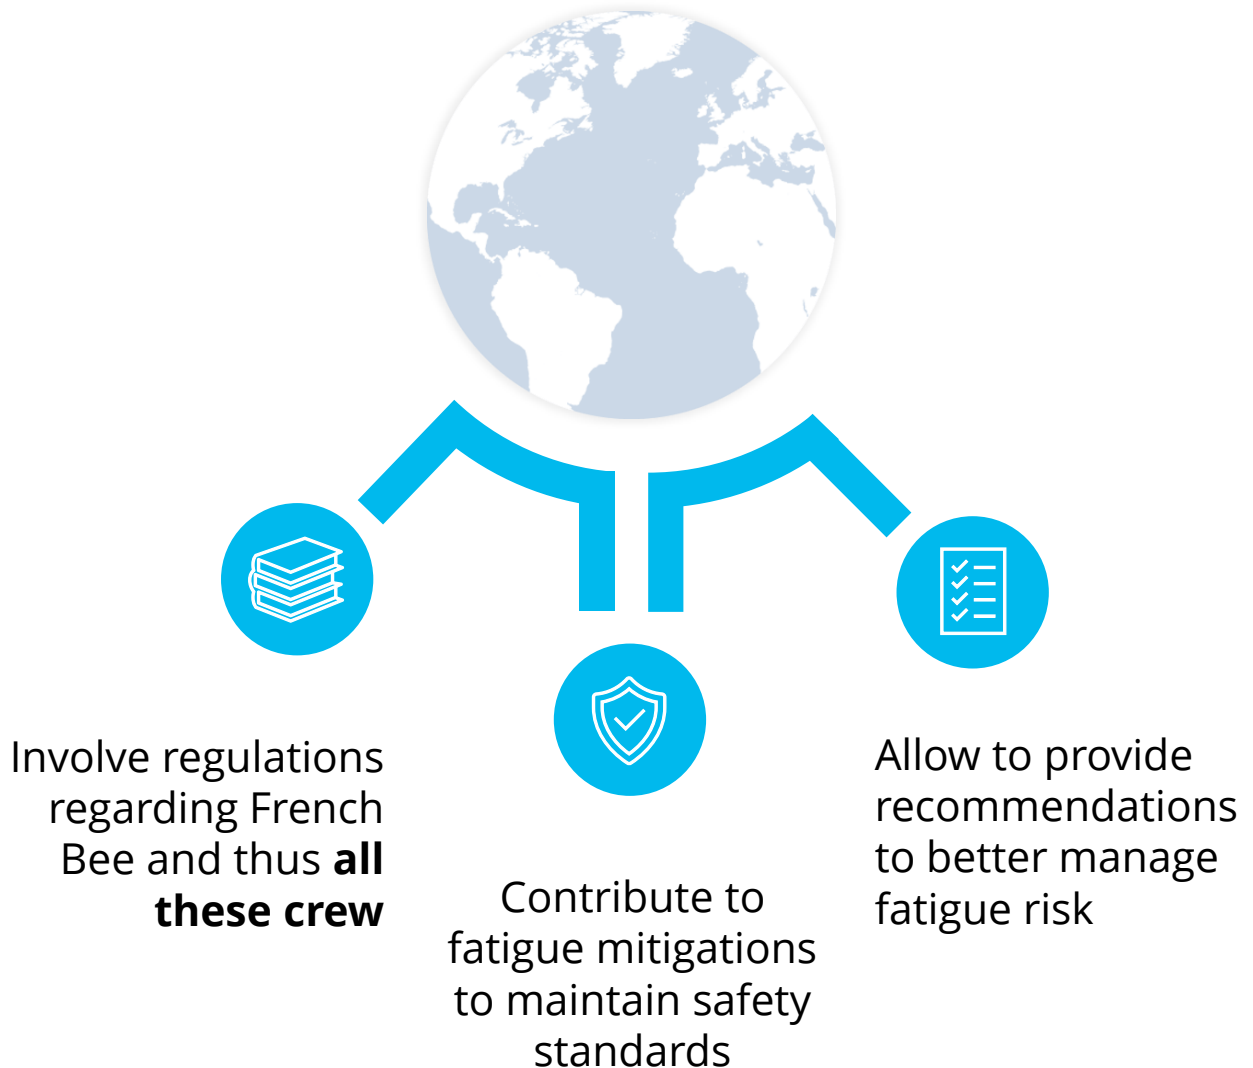

Collecting objective data to build a fatigue prediction model specific to French Bee's operations;

3

Improved consideration of fatigue in the construction of schedules.

YOUR ROLE IN THE DATA COLLECTION STUDY

For this subjective data collection campaign, please provide data regarding profile, duration and quality of sleep, and fatigue level.

Fill out the profile questionnaire once at the start of the study (this takes up to 10 minutes)

Every day, fill out your data in the web-app (this takes a few minutes)

Collect your data for (at least) 15 days in a row

It is important to complete the app every day to allow meaningful analysis of the cumulative fatigue that builds up over consecutive days

All the collected data is processed anonymously and remains confidential
